If your marital status changes, review your beneficiary designation to be sure it meets these requirements. If your name changes, complete the Name Change section of this form.

Important information for spouse

If your spouse has a vested account in a retirement plan, Federal law requires that you will receive the vested account after your spouse dies.

Your right to your spouse's death benefit provided by federal law cannot be taken away unless you agree. If you agree, your spouse can elect to have all or part of the death benefit paid to someone else. Each person your spouse chooses to receive part of the death benefit is called a "beneficiary". For example if you agree, your spouse can have the death benefit paid to his or her children instead of you.

Your choice must be voluntary. It is your personal decision whether you want to give up your right to your spouse's death benefit. If you do not agree to give up your right to your spouse's death benefit, you should not sign this agreement and you will receive the death benefit after your spouse dies. If you sign this agreement, your spouse can choose the beneficiary who will receive the death benefit without telling you and without getting your agreement. Your spouse can change the beneficiary at any time before the account is paid out. You have the right to agree to allow your spouse to select only a particular beneficiary. If you want to allow your spouse to select only a particular beneficiary, check the box in Choice C under My Beneficiary Choices section, which will limit the beneficiary choice to the one designated on this form.

You can change your mind with respect to giving up your right to the death benefit until the date your spouse dies. After that date, you cannot change this agreement. If you change your mind, you must notify the plan administrator in writing that you want to revoke the consent you give on this form.

Legal separation or divorce may end your right to the death benefit even if you do not sign this agreement. However, if you become legally separated or divorced, you might be able to get a special court order called a qualified domestic relations order (QDRO) that specifically protects your rights to the death benefit. If you are thinking about separating or getting a divorce, you should get legal advice on your rights to benefits from the plan.

Spousal agreement and consent

I understand I have a right to all of my spouse's death benefits after my spouse dies. I agree to give up my right to all or a portion of the death benefits and have all or a portion of them paid to someone else as beneficiary. I understand that by signing this agreement, my spouse can choose the beneficiary of the death benefits without telling me and without getting my agreement. I understand that by signing this agreement, my spouse can change the beneficiary of the death benefits unless I limit my spouse's choice to the particular beneficiary by checking the appropriate box on the My Beneficiary Choices section. I understand that by signing this agreement, I may receive less money than I would have received if I had not signed the agreement, and I may receive nothing from the plan after my spouse dies. I understand that I do not have to sign this agreement. I am signing this agreement voluntarily. I understand that if I do not sign this agreement, then I will receive the death benefit after my spouse dies.
